

Иностранный язык в профессиональной деятельности.фл_ДСИ_тп(3)

- 1 "What ... do?" – "She's a manager".
- 2 "What ... ?" – "I'm working on a new idea for the start-up we discussed yesterday".
- 3 Now I ... Laura's clients while she's on vacation
- 4 I think they ... these conceptual products next time
- 5 The office ... from 8 am to 11 am next weekend.
- 6 Yesterday when I sent a letter of complaint they
- 7 The manager ... sure they hadn't got the order.
- 8 When Michel passed International Entrepreneurship exam, he ... for the company for five years.
- 9 Sue ... a professional webinar to develop new skills when somebody entered the office.
- 10 The internet connection was very slow, so the secretary ... to fax the documents about the painting.
- 11 He " Business English " course since March.
- 12 Public interest to the jobs in Technology Entrepreneurship ... for last 10 years.
- 13 I My credit card on Internet as I don't find it safe.
- 14 The train to the airport ... at 12.20 so I have to be at the station by 12 o'clock.
- 15 Have you heard the news? The MKR The 10th anniversary this September.
- 16 My dear colleague, ... I make you a cup of nice tea?
- 17 The deal ... to be very successful.

- 18 The new software ... last week.
- 19 If I ... a password I could enter the system.
- 20 I wish we ... this new design technology last year.
- 21 Augmented reality is
- 22 Email marketing is
- 23 Engagement is ...
- 24 Document management is
- 25 Data center is ...
- 26 Net profit is
- 27 Objective is
- 28 Pop-up is
- 29 Asset is ...
- 30 Cashflow is ...
- 31 Copyright is ...
- 32 Growth hacking is ...

- 33 Read the text Over the last four decades, technology entrepreneurship _____ become an increasingly important global phenomenon. It is perceived as necessary _____ growth, differentiation, and competitive advantage at the firm, regional, and national levels. Technology entrepreneurship appeals mainly to leaders and top management teams of small and large firms _____ use technology to create, deliver, and capture value for _____ stakeholders. Technology entrepreneurship _____ appeals to personnel of regional economic development agencies that attract _____ in productive technologies and talent to a particular geography. The primary function of technology entrepreneurship _____ to assemble a combination of specialized individuals and heterogeneous assets _____ create and capture value for the firm through collaborative exploration and experimentation. The combination, some of the assets, or the assets' attributes may be unique and novel. _____ initial combination may change over time. In _____ article, the literature on technology entrepreneurship was classified into eight _____. The literature search revealed that _____ of the articles on technology entrepreneurship appeared in journals not considered _____ be in the technology innovation/entrepreneurship domain. The article offered a definition _____ technology entrepreneurship. A better definition of technology entrepreneurship can help _____ its performance, increase its relevance, and establish it as a legitimate domain of inquiry in its own right. This definition _____ to identify and incorporate the various distinctive aspects of technology entrepreneurship and its links to the existing domains of economics, entrepreneurship, and _____. The definition, _____ the corresponding features and links, requires particular attention from scholars and practitioners. The aspects of technology entrepreneurship to which we need to pay particular _____ are identified. These aspects are: i) the interdependence between scientific and technological change and the selection and development of new combinations, assets, and asset attributes; ii) biases in the existing entrepreneurship literature; iii) conceptualization of technology entrepreneurship as an investment _____ a project, rather than opportunity recognition or venture formation; and iv) links among technology entrepreneurship, the theory of sustainable competitive advantage, and the theory of the firm. Complete the gap with the right option: Over the last four decades, technology entrepreneurship _____ become an increasingly important global phenomenon.

- 34) Read the text Over the last four decades, technology entrepreneurship _____ become an increasingly important global phenomenon. It is perceived as necessary _____ growth, differentiation, and competitive advantage at the firm, regional, and national levels. Technology entrepreneurship appeals mainly to leaders and top management teams of small and large firms _____ use technology to create, deliver, and capture value for _____ stakeholders. Technology entrepreneurship _____ appeals to personnel of regional economic development agencies that attract _____ in productive technologies and talent to a particular geography. The primary function of technology entrepreneurship _____ to assemble a combination of specialized individuals and heterogeneous assets _____ create and capture value for the firm through collaborative exploration and experimentation. The combination, some of the assets, or the assets' attributes may be unique and novel. _____ initial combination may change over time. In _____ article, the literature on technology entrepreneurship was classified into eight _____. The literature search revealed that _____ of the articles on technology entrepreneurship appeared in journals not considered _____ be in the technology innovation/entrepreneurship domain. The article offered a definition _____ technology entrepreneurship. A better definition of technology entrepreneurship can help _____ its performance, increase its relevance, and establish it as a legitimate domain of inquiry in its own right. This definition _____ to identify and incorporate the various distinctive aspects of technology entrepreneurship and its links to the existing domains of economics, entrepreneurship, and _____. The definition, _____ the corresponding features and links, requires particular attention from scholars and practitioners. The aspects of technology entrepreneurship to which we need to pay particular _____ are identified. These aspects are: i) the interdependence between scientific and technological change and the selection and development of new combinations, assets, and asset attributes; ii) biases in the existing entrepreneurship literature; iii) conceptualization of technology entrepreneurship as an investment _____ a project, rather than opportunity recognition or venture formation; and iv) links among technology entrepreneurship, the theory of sustainable competitive advantage, and the theory of the firm. Complete the gap with the right option: It is perceived as necessary _____ growth, differentiation, and competitive advantage at the firm, regional, and national levels.

- 35 Read the text Over the last four decades, technology entrepreneurship _____ become an increasingly important global phenomenon. It is perceived as necessary _____ growth, differentiation, and competitive advantage at the firm, regional, and national levels. Technology entrepreneurship appeals mainly to leaders and top management teams of small and large firms _____ use technology to create, deliver, and capture value for _____ stakeholders. Technology entrepreneurship _____ appeals to personnel of regional economic development agencies that attract _____ in productive technologies and talent to a particular geography. The primary function of technology entrepreneurship _____ to assemble a combination of specialized individuals and heterogeneous assets _____ create and capture value for the firm through collaborative exploration and experimentation. The combination, some of the assets, or the assets' attributes may be unique and novel. _____ initial combination may change over time. In _____ article, the literature on technology entrepreneurship was classified into eight _____. The literature search revealed that _____ of the articles on technology entrepreneurship appeared in journals not considered _____ be in the technology innovation/entrepreneurship domain. The article offered a definition _____ technology entrepreneurship. A better definition of technology entrepreneurship can help _____ its performance, increase its relevance, and establish it as a legitimate domain of inquiry in its own right. This definition _____ to identify and incorporate the various distinctive aspects of technology entrepreneurship and its links to the existing domains of economics, entrepreneurship, and _____. The definition, _____ the corresponding features and links, requires particular attention from scholars and practitioners. The aspects of technology entrepreneurship to which we need to pay particular _____ are identified. These aspects are: i) the interdependence between scientific and technological change and the selection and development of new combinations, assets, and asset attributes; ii) biases in the existing entrepreneurship literature; iii) conceptualization of technology entrepreneurship as an investment _____ a project, rather than opportunity recognition or venture formation; and iv) links among technology entrepreneurship, the theory of sustainable competitive advantage, and the theory of the firm. Complete the gap with the right option: Technology entrepreneurship appeals mainly to leaders and top management teams of small and large firms _____ use technology to create, deliver,

- 36 Read the text Over the last four decades, technology entrepreneurship _____ become an increasingly important global phenomenon. It is perceived as necessary _____ growth, differentiation, and competitive advantage at the firm, regional, and national levels. Technology entrepreneurship appeals mainly to leaders and top management teams of small and large firms _____ use technology to create, deliver, and capture value for _____ stakeholders. Technology entrepreneurship _____ appeals to personnel of regional economic development agencies that attract _____ in productive technologies and talent to a particular geography. The primary function of technology entrepreneurship _____ to assemble a combination of specialized individuals and heterogeneous assets _____ create and capture value for the firm through collaborative exploration and experimentation. The combination, some of the assets, or the assets' attributes may be unique and novel. _____ initial combination may change over time. In _____ article, the literature on technology entrepreneurship was classified into eight _____. The literature search revealed that _____ of the articles on technology entrepreneurship appeared in journals not considered _____ be in the technology innovation/entrepreneurship domain. The article offered a definition _____ technology entrepreneurship. A better definition of technology entrepreneurship can help _____ its performance, increase its relevance, and establish it as a legitimate domain of inquiry in its own right. This definition _____ to identify and incorporate the various distinctive aspects of technology entrepreneurship and its links to the existing domains of economics, entrepreneurship, and _____. The definition, _____ the corresponding features and links, requires particular attention from scholars and practitioners. The aspects of technology entrepreneurship to which we need to pay particular _____ are identified. These aspects are: i) the interdependence between scientific and technological change and the selection and development of new combinations, assets, and asset attributes; ii) biases in the existing entrepreneurship literature; iii) conceptualization of technology entrepreneurship as an investment _____ a project, rather than opportunity recognition or venture formation; and iv) links among technology entrepreneurship, the theory of sustainable competitive advantage, and the theory of the firm. Complete the gap with the right option: to create, deliver, and capture value for _____ stakeholders.

- 37) Read the text Over the last four decades, technology entrepreneurship _____ become an increasingly important global phenomenon. It is perceived as necessary _____ growth, differentiation, and competitive advantage at the firm, regional, and national levels. Technology entrepreneurship appeals mainly to leaders and top management teams of small and large firms _____ use technology to create, deliver, and capture value for _____ stakeholders. Technology entrepreneurship _____ appeals to personnel of regional economic development agencies that attract _____ in productive technologies and talent to a particular geography. The primary function of technology entrepreneurship _____ to assemble a combination of specialized individuals and heterogeneous assets _____ create and capture value for the firm through collaborative exploration and experimentation. The combination, some of the assets, or the assets' attributes may be unique and novel. _____ initial combination may change over time. In _____ article, the literature on technology entrepreneurship was classified into eight _____. The literature search revealed that _____ of the articles on technology entrepreneurship appeared in journals not considered _____ be in the technology innovation/entrepreneurship domain. The article offered a definition _____ technology entrepreneurship. A better definition of technology entrepreneurship can help _____ its performance, increase its relevance, and establish it as a legitimate domain of inquiry in its own right. This definition _____ to identify and incorporate the various distinctive aspects of technology entrepreneurship and its links to the existing domains of economics, entrepreneurship, and _____. The definition, _____ the corresponding features and links, requires particular attention from scholars and practitioners. The aspects of technology entrepreneurship to which we need to pay particular _____ are identified. These aspects are: i) the interdependence between scientific and technological change and the selection and development of new combinations, assets, and asset attributes; ii) biases in the existing entrepreneurship literature; iii) conceptualization of technology entrepreneurship as an investment _____ a project, rather than opportunity recognition or venture formation; and iv) links among technology entrepreneurship, the theory of sustainable competitive advantage, and the theory of the firm. Complete the gap with the right option: Technology entrepreneurship _____ appeals to personnel of regional economic development agencies

- 38 Read the text Over the last four decades, technology entrepreneurship _____ become an increasingly important global phenomenon. It is perceived as necessary _____ growth, differentiation, and competitive advantage at the firm, regional, and national levels. Technology entrepreneurship appeals mainly to leaders and top management teams of small and large firms _____ use technology to create, deliver, and capture value for _____ stakeholders. Technology entrepreneurship _____ appeals to personnel of regional economic development agencies that attract _____ in productive technologies and talent to a particular geography. The primary function of technology entrepreneurship _____ to assemble a combination of specialized individuals and heterogeneous assets _____ create and capture value for the firm through collaborative exploration and experimentation. The combination, some of the assets, or the assets' attributes may be unique and novel. _____ initial combination may change over time. In _____ article, the literature on technology entrepreneurship was classified into eight _____. The literature search revealed that _____ of the articles on technology entrepreneurship appeared in journals not considered _____ be in the technology innovation/entrepreneurship domain. The article offered a definition _____ technology entrepreneurship. A better definition of technology entrepreneurship can help _____ its performance, increase its relevance, and establish it as a legitimate domain of inquiry in its own right. This definition _____ to identify and incorporate the various distinctive aspects of technology entrepreneurship and its links to the existing domains of economics, entrepreneurship, and _____. The definition, _____ the corresponding features and links, requires particular attention from scholars and practitioners. The aspects of technology entrepreneurship to which we need to pay particular _____ are identified. These aspects are: i) the interdependence between scientific and technological change and the selection and development of new combinations, assets, and asset attributes; ii) biases in the existing entrepreneurship literature; iii) conceptualization of technology entrepreneurship as an investment _____ a project, rather than opportunity recognition or venture formation; and iv) links among technology entrepreneurship, the theory of sustainable competitive advantage, and the theory of the firm. Complete the gap with the right option: that attract _____ in productive technologies and talent to a particular geography.

- 39) Read the text Over the last four decades, technology entrepreneurship _____ become an increasingly important global phenomenon. It is perceived as necessary _____ growth, differentiation, and competitive advantage at the firm, regional, and national levels. Technology entrepreneurship appeals mainly to leaders and top management teams of small and large firms _____ use technology to create, deliver, and capture value for _____ stakeholders. Technology entrepreneurship _____ appeals to personnel of regional economic development agencies that attract _____ in productive technologies and talent to a particular geography. The primary function of technology entrepreneurship _____ to assemble a combination of specialized individuals and heterogeneous assets _____ create and capture value for the firm through collaborative exploration and experimentation. The combination, some of the assets, or the assets' attributes may be unique and novel. _____ initial combination may change over time. In _____ article, the literature on technology entrepreneurship was classified into eight _____. The literature search revealed that _____ of the articles on technology entrepreneurship appeared in journals not considered _____ be in the technology innovation/entrepreneurship domain. The article offered a definition _____ technology entrepreneurship. A better definition of technology entrepreneurship can help _____ its performance, increase its relevance, and establish it as a legitimate domain of inquiry in its own right. This definition _____ to identify and incorporate the various distinctive aspects of technology entrepreneurship and its links to the existing domains of economics, entrepreneurship, and _____. The definition, _____ the corresponding features and links, requires particular attention from scholars and practitioners. The aspects of technology entrepreneurship to which we need to pay particular _____ are identified. These aspects are: i) the interdependence between scientific and technological change and the selection and development of new combinations, assets, and asset attributes; ii) biases in the existing entrepreneurship literature; iii) conceptualization of technology entrepreneurship as an investment _____ a project, rather than opportunity recognition or venture formation; and iv) links among technology entrepreneurship, the theory of sustainable competitive advantage, and the theory of the firm. Complete the gap with the right option: The primary function of technology entrepreneurship _____ to assemble a combination of specialized individuals and heterogeneous assets

40

Read the text Over the last four decades, technology entrepreneurship _____ become an increasingly important global phenomenon. It is perceived as necessary _____ growth, differentiation, and competitive advantage at the firm, regional, and national levels. Technology entrepreneurship appeals mainly to leaders and top management teams of small and large firms _____ use technology to create, deliver, and capture value for _____ stakeholders. Technology entrepreneurship _____ appeals to personnel of regional economic development agencies that attract _____ in productive technologies and talent to a particular geography. The primary function of technology entrepreneurship _____ to assemble a combination of specialized individuals and heterogeneous assets _____ create and capture value for the firm through collaborative exploration and experimentation. The combination, some of the assets, or the assets' attributes may be unique and novel. _____ initial combination may change over time. In _____ article, the literature on technology entrepreneurship was classified into eight _____. The literature search revealed that _____ of the articles on technology entrepreneurship appeared in journals not considered _____ be in the technology innovation/entrepreneurship domain. The article offered a definition _____ technology entrepreneurship. A better definition of technology entrepreneurship can help _____ its performance, increase its relevance, and establish it as a legitimate domain of inquiry in its own right. This definition _____ to identify and incorporate the various distinctive aspects of technology entrepreneurship and its links to the existing domains of economics, entrepreneurship, and _____. The definition, _____ the corresponding features and links, requires particular attention from scholars and practitioners. The aspects of technology entrepreneurship to which we need to pay particular _____ are identified. These aspects are: i) the interdependence between scientific and technological change and the selection and development of new combinations, assets, and asset attributes; ii) biases in the existing entrepreneurship literature; iii) conceptualization of technology entrepreneurship as an investment _____ a project, rather than opportunity recognition or venture formation; and iv) links among technology entrepreneurship, the theory of sustainable competitive advantage, and the theory of the firm. Complete the gap with the right option: individuals and heterogeneous assets _____ create and capture value for the firm through collaborative exploration and experimentation.

- 41) Read the text Over the last four decades, technology entrepreneurship _____ become an increasingly important global phenomenon. It is perceived as necessary _____ growth, differentiation, and competitive advantage at the firm, regional, and national levels. Technology entrepreneurship appeals mainly to leaders and top management teams of small and large firms _____ use technology to create, deliver, and capture value for _____ stakeholders. Technology entrepreneurship _____ appeals to personnel of regional economic development agencies that attract _____ in productive technologies and talent to a particular geography. The primary function of technology entrepreneurship _____ to assemble a combination of specialized individuals and heterogeneous assets _____ create and capture value for the firm through collaborative exploration and experimentation. The combination, some of the assets, or the assets' attributes may be unique and novel. _____ initial combination may change over time. In _____ article, the literature on technology entrepreneurship was classified into eight _____. The literature search revealed that _____ of the articles on technology entrepreneurship appeared in journals not considered _____ be in the technology innovation/entrepreneurship domain. The article offered a definition _____ technology entrepreneurship. A better definition of technology entrepreneurship can help _____ its performance, increase its relevance, and establish it as a legitimate domain of inquiry in its own right. This definition _____ to identify and incorporate the various distinctive aspects of technology entrepreneurship and its links to the existing domains of economics, entrepreneurship, and _____. The definition, _____ the corresponding features and links, requires particular attention from scholars and practitioners. The aspects of technology entrepreneurship to which we need to pay particular _____ are identified. These aspects are: i) the interdependence between scientific and technological change and the selection and development of new combinations, assets, and asset attributes; ii) biases in the existing entrepreneurship literature; iii) conceptualization of technology entrepreneurship as an investment _____ a project, rather than opportunity recognition or venture formation; and iv) links among technology entrepreneurship, the theory of sustainable competitive advantage, and the theory of the firm. Complete the gap with the right option: _____ initial combination may change over time.

42

Read the text Over the last four decades, technology entrepreneurship _____ become an increasingly important global phenomenon. It is perceived as necessary _____ growth, differentiation, and competitive advantage at the firm, regional, and national levels. Technology entrepreneurship appeals mainly to leaders and top management teams of small and large firms _____ use technology to create, deliver, and capture value for _____ stakeholders. Technology entrepreneurship _____ appeals to personnel of regional economic development agencies that attract _____ in productive technologies and talent to a particular geography. The primary function of technology entrepreneurship _____ to assemble a combination of specialized individuals and heterogeneous assets _____ create and capture value for the firm through collaborative exploration and experimentation. The combination, some of the assets, or the assets' attributes may be unique and novel. _____ initial combination may change over time. In _____ article, the literature on technology entrepreneurship was classified into eight _____. The literature search revealed that _____ of the articles on technology entrepreneurship appeared in journals not considered _____ be in the technology innovation/entrepreneurship domain. The article offered a definition _____ technology entrepreneurship. A better definition of technology entrepreneurship can help _____ its performance, increase its relevance, and establish it as a legitimate domain of inquiry in its own right. This definition _____ to identify and incorporate the various distinctive aspects of technology entrepreneurship and its links to the existing domains of economics, entrepreneurship, and _____. The definition, _____ the corresponding features and links, requires particular attention from scholars and practitioners. The aspects of technology entrepreneurship to which we need to pay particular _____ are identified. These aspects are: i) the interdependence between scientific and technological change and the selection and development of new combinations, assets, and asset attributes; ii) biases in the existing entrepreneurship literature; iii) conceptualization of technology entrepreneurship as an investment _____ a project, rather than opportunity recognition or venture formation; and iv) links among technology entrepreneurship, the theory of sustainable competitive advantage, and the theory of the firm. Complete the gap with the right option: In _____ article, the literature on technology entrepreneurship was classified

43

Read the text Over the last four decades, technology entrepreneurship _____ become an increasingly important global phenomenon. It is perceived as necessary _____ growth, differentiation, and competitive advantage at the firm, regional, and national levels. Technology entrepreneurship appeals mainly to leaders and top management teams of small and large firms _____ use technology to create, deliver, and capture value for _____ stakeholders. Technology entrepreneurship _____ appeals to personnel of regional economic development agencies that attract _____ in productive technologies and talent to a particular geography. The primary function of technology entrepreneurship _____ to assemble a combination of specialized individuals and heterogeneous assets _____ create and capture value for the firm through collaborative exploration and experimentation. The combination, some of the assets, or the assets' attributes may be unique and novel. _____ initial combination may change over time. In _____ article, the literature on technology entrepreneurship was classified into eight _____. The literature search revealed that _____ of the articles on technology entrepreneurship appeared in journals not considered _____ be in the technology innovation/entrepreneurship domain. The article offered a definition _____ technology entrepreneurship. A better definition of technology entrepreneurship can help _____ its performance, increase its relevance, and establish it as a legitimate domain of inquiry in its own right. This definition _____ to identify and incorporate the various distinctive aspects of technology entrepreneurship and its links to the existing domains of economics, entrepreneurship, and _____. The definition, _____ the corresponding features and links, requires particular attention from scholars and practitioners. The aspects of technology entrepreneurship to which we need to pay particular _____ are identified. These aspects are: i) the interdependence between scientific and technological change and the selection and development of new combinations, assets, and asset attributes; ii) biases in the existing entrepreneurship literature; iii) conceptualization of technology entrepreneurship as an investment _____ a project, rather than opportunity recognition or venture formation; and iv) links among technology entrepreneurship, the theory of sustainable competitive advantage, and the theory of the firm. Complete the gap with the right option: the literature on technology entrepreneurship was classified into eight _____.

44

Read the text Over the last four decades, technology entrepreneurship _____ become an increasingly important global phenomenon. It is perceived as necessary _____ growth, differentiation, and competitive advantage at the firm, regional, and national levels. Technology entrepreneurship appeals mainly to leaders and top management teams of small and large firms _____ use technology to create, deliver, and capture value for _____ stakeholders. Technology entrepreneurship _____ appeals to personnel of regional economic development agencies that attract _____ in productive technologies and talent to a particular geography. The primary function of technology entrepreneurship _____ to assemble a combination of specialized individuals and heterogeneous assets _____ create and capture value for the firm through collaborative exploration and experimentation. The combination, some of the assets, or the assets' attributes may be unique and novel. _____ initial combination may change over time. In _____ article, the literature on technology entrepreneurship was classified into eight _____. The literature search revealed that _____ of the articles on technology entrepreneurship appeared in journals not considered _____ be in the technology innovation/entrepreneurship domain. The article offered a definition _____ technology entrepreneurship. A better definition of technology entrepreneurship can help _____ its performance, increase its relevance, and establish it as a legitimate domain of inquiry in its own right. This definition _____ to identify and incorporate the various distinctive aspects of technology entrepreneurship and its links to the existing domains of economics, entrepreneurship, and _____. The definition, _____ the corresponding features and links, requires particular attention from scholars and practitioners. The aspects of technology entrepreneurship to which we need to pay particular _____ are identified. These aspects are: i) the interdependence between scientific and technological change and the selection and development of new combinations, assets, and asset attributes; ii) biases in the existing entrepreneurship literature; iii) conceptualization of technology entrepreneurship as an investment _____ a project, rather than opportunity recognition or venture formation; and iv) links among technology entrepreneurship, the theory of sustainable competitive advantage, and the theory of the firm. Complete the gap with the right option: The literature search revealed that _____ of the articles on technology entrepreneurship

45

Read the text Over the last four decades, technology entrepreneurship _____ become an increasingly important global phenomenon. It is perceived as necessary _____ growth, differentiation, and competitive advantage at the firm, regional, and national levels. Technology entrepreneurship appeals mainly to leaders and top management teams of small and large firms _____ use technology to create, deliver, and capture value for _____ stakeholders. Technology entrepreneurship _____ appeals to personnel of regional economic development agencies that attract _____ in productive technologies and talent to a particular geography. The primary function of technology entrepreneurship _____ to assemble a combination of specialized individuals and heterogeneous assets _____ create and capture value for the firm through collaborative exploration and experimentation. The combination, some of the assets, or the assets' attributes may be unique and novel. _____ initial combination may change over time. In _____ article, the literature on technology entrepreneurship was classified into eight _____. The literature search revealed that _____ of the articles on technology entrepreneurship appeared in journals not considered _____ be in the technology innovation/entrepreneurship domain. The article offered a definition _____ technology entrepreneurship. A better definition of technology entrepreneurship can help _____ its performance, increase its relevance, and establish it as a legitimate domain of inquiry in its own right. This definition _____ to identify and incorporate the various distinctive aspects of technology entrepreneurship and its links to the existing domains of economics, entrepreneurship, and _____. The definition, _____ the corresponding features and links, requires particular attention from scholars and practitioners. The aspects of technology entrepreneurship to which we need to pay particular _____ are identified. These aspects are: i) the interdependence between scientific and technological change and the selection and development of new combinations, assets, and asset attributes; ii) biases in the existing entrepreneurship literature; iii) conceptualization of technology entrepreneurship as an investment _____ a project, rather than opportunity recognition or venture formation; and iv) links among technology entrepreneurship, the theory of sustainable competitive advantage, and the theory of the firm. Complete the gap with the right option: the articles on technology entrepreneurship appeared in journals not considered _____ be in the technology innovation/entrepreneurship domain.

46

Read the text Over the last four decades, technology entrepreneurship _____ become an increasingly important global phenomenon. It is perceived as necessary _____ growth, differentiation, and competitive advantage at the firm, regional, and national levels. Technology entrepreneurship appeals mainly to leaders and top management teams of small and large firms _____ use technology to create, deliver, and capture value for _____ stakeholders. Technology entrepreneurship _____ appeals to personnel of regional economic development agencies that attract _____ in productive technologies and talent to a particular geography. The primary function of technology entrepreneurship _____ to assemble a combination of specialized individuals and heterogeneous assets _____ create and capture value for the firm through collaborative exploration and experimentation. The combination, some of the assets, or the assets' attributes may be unique and novel. _____ initial combination may change over time. In _____ article, the literature on technology entrepreneurship was classified into eight _____. The literature search revealed that _____ of the articles on technology entrepreneurship appeared in journals not considered _____ be in the technology innovation/entrepreneurship domain. The article offered a definition _____ technology entrepreneurship. A better definition of technology entrepreneurship can help _____ its performance, increase its relevance, and establish it as a legitimate domain of inquiry in its own right. This definition _____ to identify and incorporate the various distinctive aspects of technology entrepreneurship and its links to the existing domains of economics, entrepreneurship, and _____. The definition, _____ the corresponding features and links, requires particular attention from scholars and practitioners. The aspects of technology entrepreneurship to which we need to pay particular _____ are identified. These aspects are: i) the interdependence between scientific and technological change and the selection and development of new combinations, assets, and asset attributes; ii) biases in the existing entrepreneurship literature; iii) conceptualization of technology entrepreneurship as an investment _____ a project, rather than opportunity recognition or venture formation; and iv) links among technology entrepreneurship, the theory of sustainable competitive advantage, and the theory of the firm. Complete the gap with the right option: The article offered a definition _____ technology entrepreneurship.

47

Read the text Over the last four decades, technology entrepreneurship _____ become an increasingly important global phenomenon. It is perceived as necessary _____ growth, differentiation, and competitive advantage at the firm, regional, and national levels. Technology entrepreneurship appeals mainly to leaders and top management teams of small and large firms _____ use technology to create, deliver, and capture value for _____ stakeholders. Technology entrepreneurship _____ appeals to personnel of regional economic development agencies that attract _____ in productive technologies and talent to a particular geography. The primary function of technology entrepreneurship _____ to assemble a combination of specialized individuals and heterogeneous assets _____ create and capture value for the firm through collaborative exploration and experimentation. The combination, some of the assets, or the assets' attributes may be unique and novel. _____ initial combination may change over time. In _____ article, the literature on technology entrepreneurship was classified into eight _____. The literature search revealed that _____ of the articles on technology entrepreneurship appeared in journals not considered _____ be in the technology innovation/entrepreneurship domain. The article offered a definition _____ technology entrepreneurship. A better definition of technology entrepreneurship can help _____ its performance, increase its relevance, and establish it as a legitimate domain of inquiry in its own right. This definition _____ to identify and incorporate the various distinctive aspects of technology entrepreneurship and its links to the existing domains of economics, entrepreneurship, and _____. The definition, _____ the corresponding features and links, requires particular attention from scholars and practitioners. The aspects of technology entrepreneurship to which we need to pay particular _____ are identified. These aspects are: i) the interdependence between scientific and technological change and the selection and development of new combinations, assets, and asset attributes; ii) biases in the existing entrepreneurship literature; iii) conceptualization of technology entrepreneurship as an investment _____ a project, rather than opportunity recognition or venture formation; and iv) links among technology entrepreneurship, the theory of sustainable competitive advantage, and the theory of the firm. Complete the gap with the right option: A better definition of technology entrepreneurship can help _____ its performance

48

Read the text Over the last four decades, technology entrepreneurship _____ become an increasingly important global phenomenon. It is perceived as necessary _____ growth, differentiation, and competitive advantage at the firm, regional, and national levels. Technology entrepreneurship appeals mainly to leaders and top management teams of small and large firms _____ use technology to create, deliver, and capture value for _____ stakeholders. Technology entrepreneurship _____ appeals to personnel of regional economic development agencies that attract _____ in productive technologies and talent to a particular geography. The primary function of technology entrepreneurship _____ to assemble a combination of specialized individuals and heterogeneous assets _____ create and capture value for the firm through collaborative exploration and experimentation. The combination, some of the assets, or the assets' attributes may be unique and novel. _____ initial combination may change over time. In _____ article, the literature on technology entrepreneurship was classified into eight _____. The literature search revealed that _____ of the articles on technology entrepreneurship appeared in journals not considered _____ be in the technology innovation/entrepreneurship domain. The article offered a definition _____ technology entrepreneurship. A better definition of technology entrepreneurship can help _____ its performance, increase its relevance, and establish it as a legitimate domain of inquiry in its own right. This definition _____ to identify and incorporate the various distinctive aspects of technology entrepreneurship and its links to the existing domains of economics, entrepreneurship, and _____. The definition, _____ the corresponding features and links, requires particular attention from scholars and practitioners. The aspects of technology entrepreneurship to which we need to pay particular _____ are identified. These aspects are: i) the interdependence between scientific and technological change and the selection and development of new combinations, assets, and asset attributes; ii) biases in the existing entrepreneurship literature; iii) conceptualization of technology entrepreneurship as an investment _____ a project, rather than opportunity recognition or venture formation; and iv) links among technology entrepreneurship, the theory of sustainable competitive advantage, and the theory of the firm. Complete the gap with the right option: This definition _____ to identify and incorporate the various distinctive aspects of technology entrepreneurship

49

Read the text Over the last four decades, technology entrepreneurship _____ become an increasingly important global phenomenon. It is perceived as necessary _____ growth, differentiation, and competitive advantage at the firm, regional, and national levels. Technology entrepreneurship appeals mainly to leaders and top management teams of small and large firms _____ use technology to create, deliver, and capture value for _____ stakeholders. Technology entrepreneurship _____ appeals to personnel of regional economic development agencies that attract _____ in productive technologies and talent to a particular geography. The primary function of technology entrepreneurship _____ to assemble a combination of specialized individuals and heterogeneous assets _____ create and capture value for the firm through collaborative exploration and experimentation. The combination, some of the assets, or the assets' attributes may be unique and novel. _____ initial combination may change over time. In _____ article, the literature on technology entrepreneurship was classified into eight _____. The literature search revealed that _____ of the articles on technology entrepreneurship appeared in journals not considered _____ be in the technology innovation/entrepreneurship domain. The article offered a definition _____ technology entrepreneurship. A better definition of technology entrepreneurship can help _____ its performance, increase its relevance, and establish it as a legitimate domain of inquiry in its own right. This definition _____ to identify and incorporate the various distinctive aspects of technology entrepreneurship and its links to the existing domains of economics, entrepreneurship, and _____. The definition, _____ the corresponding features and links, requires particular attention from scholars and practitioners. The aspects of technology entrepreneurship to which we need to pay particular _____ are identified. These aspects are: i) the interdependence between scientific and technological change and the selection and development of new combinations, assets, and asset attributes; ii) biases in the existing entrepreneurship literature; iii) conceptualization of technology entrepreneurship as an investment _____ a project, rather than opportunity recognition or venture formation; and iv) links among technology entrepreneurship, the theory of sustainable competitive advantage, and the theory of the firm. Complete the gap with the right option: its links to the existing domains of economics, entrepreneurship, and _____.

- 50 Read the text Over the last four decades, technology entrepreneurship _____ become an increasingly important global phenomenon. It is perceived as necessary _____ growth, differentiation, and competitive advantage at the firm, regional, and national levels. Technology entrepreneurship appeals mainly to leaders and top management teams of small and large firms _____ use technology to create, deliver, and capture value for _____ stakeholders. Technology entrepreneurship _____ appeals to personnel of regional economic development agencies that attract _____ in productive technologies and talent to a particular geography. The primary function of technology entrepreneurship _____ to assemble a combination of specialized individuals and heterogeneous assets _____ create and capture value for the firm through collaborative exploration and experimentation. The combination, some of the assets, or the assets' attributes may be unique and novel. _____ initial combination may change over time. In _____ article, the literature on technology entrepreneurship was classified into eight _____. The literature search revealed that _____ of the articles on technology entrepreneurship appeared in journals not considered _____ be in the technology innovation/entrepreneurship domain. The article offered a definition _____ technology entrepreneurship. A better definition of technology entrepreneurship can help _____ its performance, increase its relevance, and establish it as a legitimate domain of inquiry in its own right. This definition _____ to identify and incorporate the various distinctive aspects of technology entrepreneurship and its links to the existing domains of economics, entrepreneurship, and _____. The definition, _____ the corresponding features and links, requires particular attention from scholars and practitioners. The aspects of technology entrepreneurship to which we need to pay particular _____ are identified. These aspects are: i) the interdependence between scientific and technological change and the selection and development of new combinations, assets, and asset attributes; ii) biases in the existing entrepreneurship literature; iii) conceptualization of technology entrepreneurship as an investment _____ a project, rather than opportunity recognition or venture formation; and iv) links among technology entrepreneurship, the theory of sustainable competitive advantage, and the theory of the firm. Complete the gap with the right option: The definition, _____ the corresponding features and links, requires particular attention from scholars and practitioners.

